Giles Miskin, Managing Director said, "We are absolutely delighted that the hard work and effort that has been put in to making The Colour Works a valued and respected brand in the learning and development sector is reaping reward. We have a solid portfolio of development programmes that are achieving excellent results for our clients and have well respected facilitators with knowledge and expertise in both sectors and individual specialisms to deliver them. Whether it is a leadership programme, team development, change management, sales or coaching, we have the right programmes and right facilitators to achieve the results our clients expect."

Nick Fewings, Business Development Director commented, "Our client base continues to grow and additionally we have a steady stream of repeat business, which in itself speaks volumes for our innovative programmes. We have a 93% cumulative excellent feedback rating from those who have been on our learning programmes, which we take great pride in. In addition we are seeing increased demand for The Colour Works as keynote speakers at conferences and to deliver break-out sessions throughout the UK."

The Colour Works has its Head Office in Bournemouth and works throughout the UK delivering highly-regarded development programmes and coaching to clients across the public, private and charitable sectors, including Audi, Barclays, HMRC, Paul Smith & the Simplyhealth Group.
