

Communication and Collaboration

Within a constantly changing working landscape, teams need to be agile and communicate with clarity and purpose. But all too often they fall foul of false assumptions, vague terms of reference and siloed thinking, all of which conspire to derail effective collaboration. The Communication and Collaboration workshop focuses on getting the right messages across right, first time.

This programme has been designed by The Colour Works.

- An awareness of others
- Communication skills
- Collaboration

Outcomes

Our communication workshop will leave delegates with an enhanced awareness of how their communication style can be misread and how best to adapt to meet others' needs. They will understand the importance of creating clarity in the content and delivery of their communications to ensure collaboration is enhanced rather than undermined.
